Behind every legend is a fascinating story.

170 years of design and technological innovation. In the name of beauty and intuition.
Lake Iseo, 1842. A sudden storm results in damaged boats. A young and talented craftsman emerges to repair them.

This is how the fascinating Riva legend was born.

From transport vessels to leisure boats, from racing powerboats to “La Dolce Vita” runabouts. From a shipyard to a brand that rewrote the history books.
In a few short years Riva's creations become the objects of desire for the aristocracy, sporting champions, successful businessmen and movie stars.

Symbols of elegance, status and perfection, they are considered the best by the best.
"Sun, sea, joie de vivre!"

1962. The legend is born: its name is Acquarama and it is destined to become an undying symbol of the Riva brand.
1960. With customary foresight, Carlo Riva formerly looks into developing larger yachts as a progression of the brand dream.
"If Riva were to build a 50 metres superyacht today, it should follow the long tradition of building high-performance yachts of breathtaking beauty.

It should be both safe and economical, because by going slowly you consume less and go farther.”

evolution
In the nautical history books, Riva is synonymous of beauty and painstaking attention to detail.
Exceptional taste and the precision construction make Riva products true objects of design. They are not only yachts: they are outstanding works of art.
The marriage between art and execution is the defining feature of Riva’s DNA and remains whatever the size of yacht.

“An unmistakable language of sailing”
In the transition to the world of superyachts the role of the interior is becoming ever more crucial.

Exterior and interior are inextricably linked to provide a perfect result.
Mood and atmosphere are what define the personality of a yacht.
Style and attention to detail are the hallmarks of the Riva brand, both inside and out.

Customization, versatility, singularity: these are the defining characteristics of the interiors created by Riva Superyachts Division.
Beauty and respect for the environment come together in the selection and application of the finest natural raw materials.
According to Carlo Riva's vision, the superyacht world assumes a green profile: the promotion of local values and materials, enhancement of the territory, and development of small-scale economies.
The Riva Superyachts adventure starts at 50 metres.

50mt
